

SHOULD HAVE BEEN PUBLISHED.

In rendering his decision upon the sufficiency of the publication of the constitutional amendments, by appearing in the Statutes, Judge Bigelow expressed the opinion that the intent of the law was to have them published in the newspapers, although not actually so expressed. The Judge was certainly correct. The object of the publication clause was evidently to enable as many voters as possible to read the amendments, so as to enable them to vote intelligently upon them. In this case they would have met the eyes and been read by a hundred persons to one that has or ever will peruse them in the Statutes, and the most meritorious of them are likely to be defeated, for the reason that the voters generally will know nothing about them. Perhaps, however, the State officials considered that the newspapers in the State would publish them as matters of news, or in connection with their editorial comments upon them. Probably this will be done to a considerable extent but they should have been published officially, and it was a case of either gross negligence or pitiful niggardliness that they were not.—Gazette.

This ought to teach the framers of laws to say explicitly what they mean. If they wanted it published in a paper, why didn't they say "in a daily newspaper" in plain English. Half the laws on the Statute books are written with such a studied disregard of the ordinary rules of plain English, that they are not capable of being understood. All laws should read so plainly that no two persons will have a different idea of them.

SENATE BILL NO. FOUR.

The Assembly has passed Senate bill No. 4 with a slight amendment which in no way effects the intention of the bill. Why any person should oppose this bill who believes in and is an advocate of the free coinage of silver is a mystery. It simply makes any contract, obligation, debt, bond or undertaking payable in either the gold and silver coin, or legal tender money of the congress of the United States, instead of gold coin as heretofore. It has long been said by the goldbugs of the East that we of Nevada were always willing to talk silver, but when it came to the point, we demanded in payment for our contracts, etc., gold coin. This bill does away with that and proves to the world that we believe in the use of silver as money. If the bill had said silver bullion instead of silver coin there might have been reason for objection, but as it is there is none. Let any person take $1000 in gold coin and try to buy silver coin anywhere in the United States and they will find that they will not get one dollar more in silver coin for there gold than the coin value of said gold, therefore no one will run around to get silver to pay a debt in the future any more than in the past, but the fact that we are willing to accept silver as money, shows our faith in the monetary functions of the white metal. It is not to be wondered at that the silver question meets with opposition in the congress of the United States, when right her in Nevada men who claim to be believers in the question are against the metal as a debt paying power.—Silver State.

The Old Thing.

Bacon is worth eighteen cents a pound at retail stores in Reno. A car load of fat hogs were shipped to San Francisco night before last to be sold there at about five and one half cents a pound. Freight deducted the farmer gets about five cents a pound. The hogs will be slaughtered there and the meat cured and shipped back for use here at 18 cents per pound.

Won't some one teach our people to kill hogs and cure the meat in salt water and smoke it two "our taste," and thereby save to our people sixty per cent of the cost of living?—Journal.

No one can teach sense to such people as are described as living in Reno. The worst of it is that they live all over the State.

Almost anybody now can take John L. Sullivan by the neck and slack of the pants and pitch him out of a saloon.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays the pain, cures wind colic and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Twenty five cents a bottle.

The storm seems to be over and we may now look for settled weather.
